DEEJ
A film by Robert Rooy

TV Broadcast Premiere on AMERICA REFRAMED
Tuesday, October 17, 2017 at 8 p.m. on WORLD Channel

“Every time the world changes, someone has to go first. It’s hard to go first. DJ knows this better than most. But DEEJ makes one thing very clear—he’s going to bring all of us along with him.” — Julie Bascom, Executive Director, Autistic Self Advocacy Network (ASAN)

September 26, 2017 – (New York, NY) – DEEJ is the story of DJ—David James Savarese—a gifted, young writer and advocate for nonspeaking autistics who once was a “profoundly disabled” foster kid, on a fast track to nowhere. In the film, we meet DJ as a first-year college student who insists on standing up for his peers: people who are dismissed as incompetent because they are “neurologically diverse”. Will DJ be able to find freedom for himself and others like him?

DEEJ, the feature documentary by Robert Rooy (director and producer) and DJ Savarese (narrator and producer), will have its national television broadcast premiere on AMERICA REFRAMED on Tuesday, October 17, 2017, at 8 p.m. on WORLD Channel (check local listings). The documentary series is dedicated to highlighting intimate stories by emerging and veteran filmmakers who are chronicling an ever-changing America. Free online streaming of the documentary starts October 18th on www.americareframed.org

No ordinary coming-of-age story, DEEJ showcases a young man’s resolve and creativity as he confronts society’s misperceptions about Autism with the loving support of his parents, his extended family, and a community of close friends. As he makes his way through high school and dreams of college, DJ confronts the terrors of his past, society’s obstacles to inclusion, and the sometimes paralyzing beauty of his own senses. With unflinching candor, the film reveals what it takes to make the goals of “inclusion” and “disability rights” a reality.

DJ believes that being included is every student’s right, and he sets his sights on Oberlin College, an institution he notes has a progressive history of inclusion, and becomes their first non-speaking autistic student. As he moves to Ohio and the Oberlin campus, he is exposed to the gawking of strangers. Poetry helps DJ gain control over his emotions and deep breathing calms his nerves. Vivid animation by Em Cooper weaves throughout the film to bring the audience into DJ’s poetry and imagination.

In this first-of-its kind collaboration between a veteran filmmaker and a nonspeaking autistic, Robert Rooy and DJ Savarese share editorial control as they navigate the challenges of representing autism on film. In his advocacy on behalf of nonspeaking autistics, DJ embraces filmmaking and poetry and discovers what having a voice can truly mean.
